

Repsol expands its fuel discounts in Spain

- Repsol's private customers who use the free Waylet application have from today a discount of 10 euro cents per liter at the more than 3,300 Repsol service stations in Spain, in addition to the Government's 20 cents rebate and other regular discounts, where applicable. The price reduction in these cases amounts at least 30 euro cents per liter of fuel.
- Customers who do not use Waylet have an additional reduction of 5 euro cents per liter of fuel over the 20 cents bonus approved by the government. Therefore, the price reduction in these cases is 25 cents in total.
- For haulers, Repsol also offers a minimum discount of 10 euro cents per liter to professionals who have the Solred card, in addition to the 20 cents offered by the government. so that the minimum discount will be 30 euro cents per liter The offer is compatible with others already received by haulers and the self-employed through these cards.
- Haulers and customers who do not use Solred will receive a 5 cent discount, in addition to the 20 cent bonus approved by the Government, for a total discount of 25 cents.

Repsol private customers who use the free Waylet application receive, from today until June 30, a minimum discount of 10 euro cents per liter at the more than 3,300 Repsol service stations in addition to the Government's 20 euro cent rebate. The total price reduction at Repsol service stations in these cases is up to 30 euro cents per liter of fuel, to which other discounts are added where applicable.

On the other hand, customers who from today use Repsol service stations and do not use Waylet will have a 5 euro cents discount as well as the 20 euro cents bonus approved by the government. Therefore, in these cases the total discount is 25 euro cents per liter.

For haulers, Repsol also offers a minimum discount of 10 euro cents per liter to professionals who have the Solred card, in addition to the 20 cents offered by the government, so that the minimum discount will be 30 euro cents per liter The offer is compatible with others already received by haulers and the self-employed through these cards.

Likewise, haulers and professionals who do not use Solred have an additional reduction of 5 euro cents per liter of fuel on the 20 euro cent rebate approved by the government. Therefore, the price reduction in these cases is 25 euro cents per liter in total.

With these discounts, Repsol goes beyond the state subsidy with the aim of reducing the price of an essential good such as fuels, in an environment of high fuel prices caused by the increase in the international prices of raw materials as a result of the war in Ukraine.

Repsol was the first operator to establish voluntary discounts for its customers, both individuals and transporters. Since March 16, the company's discount has benefitted more than one million operations by private customers.

The discount is compatible with other advantages already offered by Waylet, such as the app welcome promotion, which accumulates a balance of 3 euro cents per liter of fuel during the first six months; or with the offer for contracting electricity and gas with Repsol, among others.

In line with Repsol's strategic commitment to digitalization, professional customers have the possibility of dispensing with the physical Solred cards to make payments, with this reduction of 30 cents in addition to their existing discounts via Waylet.

Repsol, a leader in product quality and innovation, has the most extensive network of service stations in Spain.
